The negro assailant of Mrs. Etta Rose, at Paducah, made a safe getaway.

The New York World's straw vote shows that Wilson is forging ahead as the votes come in.

Jas. B. Allensworth will speak at Eddyville Saturday night for the Democratic ticket.

All schools in Trimble county have been ordered closed for ten days, on account of diphtheria.

Dr. I. Z. Barber, of Princeton, Ky., made the mistake of trying to drive his automobile and hold a pig at the same time. He lost control of his machine and ran into a ditch, crashing into a telephone pole and was nearly overthrown. The automobile was damaged considerably, though the doctor and the pig escaped serious injury.

Sidney G. Clay, a wealthy Bourbon county farmer and former State legislator, who twice in recent years was near death by his own hand, was shot five times Friday by Lee Deavers at the Deavers home, near Paris, Ky. Clay had been seated talking to Mrs. Bedford Deavers, sister-in-law of Lee, before the shooting, according to Mrs. Deavers, the only witness.

HANLY AND LANDRITH

Prohibition Nominees Stop Here on Their Whirlwind Campaign.

THREE SPEECHES MADE

Given Cordial Reception By all Voters—Introduced by Mayor Bassett.

The Prohibition special stopped here at 2:15 Saturday afternoon and the Speakers were escorted to the Courthouse where a crowd of 300 was assembled in the court room. Judge McCarroll, who was trying a jury case, adjourned to the room below.

Acting Mayor Bassett introduced the first speaker and presided. Rev. Ira Landrith, of Nashville, the candidate for Vice President, spoke first and was a good talker, with a clear, strong voice and explained why he had left the Democratic party to work for national prohibition. He predicted that such a show of strength would be made this year that one or the other of the dominant parties would be forced to nominate a prohibitionist in 1920, who would be elected.

Dr. Landrith introduced Mr. Oliver Stewart, the business man in charge of the special, who said it was being paid for by voluntary contributions and at his request hats were passed through the audience and several dollars contributed.

Hon. J. Frank Hanly, former governor of Indiana, appeared much fatigued and dozed at one time while waiting his turn to speak. He followed Mr. Stewart and his voice was hoarse and weak, but as he proceeded he warmed up and made a clear-cut and vigorous appeal for votes.

All of the speakers admitted that the ticket had no prospect of election. They remained about one hour and left for Nashville.

At Louisville no speeches were made Sunday except by Dr. Landrith. Mr. Hanly rested his voice for his strenuous Indiana campaign this week. Beginning at North Vernon, Ind., early in the day, eight meetings were held yesterday when Michigan was entered for a meeting in Detroit.

CONCUSSION OF THE BRAIN

Caused By Fall, Results in Death of Little Child at Crofton.

Sterling, the fifteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Keith, of Crofton, died early Saturday morning from the effects of injuries sustained by a fall from a chair Friday night. Mrs. Keith was preparing for supper and took the child into the dining room with her and placed it in a high chair. She then went about her household duties and in a few moments she heard the baby fall. Rushing in the dining room she found that in some manner it had tumbled out upon the floor. A physician was on hand in a very few minutes, but the child died in about ten or twelve hours, as above stated. Death was due to concussion of the brain. He was the fourth and youngest child of the family.

The sudden taking off of the little one was a great shock to its parents and they have the sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon and the interment took place at Crofton.

Virginia Hart, aged three, caught her clothing on fire from an open grate at Earlington and was burned to death.

ELOPERS DEAD SIDE BY SIDE

Bodies of Mayfield Man and Sister-in-Law Found Sunday.

BODIES DECOMPOSED

Man Shot Thrice In Breast, and The Girl Once In Temple.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 16.—A sensation has been caused in this vicinity by the finding Sunday morning of Charles Brown, 15 years old, a married man, and Elma Cope, 14 years old, his sister-in-law, near Glade five miles south of Benton, Marshall county. The latter was shot three times in the breast and the former had a bullet hole in the right temple. It is presumed that Brown killed the girl and then committed suicide. The bodies, which were side by side, were decomposed, indicating the two had been dead several days. The couple disappeared several days ago and relatives and friends had been searching the fields and woods for them. Both were well-to-do and highly respected. They were engaged in farming.

Their disappearance followed shortly after they had been returned from Arkansas, where they had gone about a month ago. Brown, at that time, was placed under $1,000 bond to wait the action of the grand jury. After his preliminary trial Brown went back to his wife and it was believed he had repented, when it became known a week ago that he and the girl again had disappeared.

REVIVAL WILL CONTINUE

Meeting at C. P. Church Growing in Interest With Each Day.

The revival services at the Cumberland Presbyterian church will continue until Friday night at least, according to the announcement of the pastor Sunday.

Sunday morning Dr. Courtner's subject was "The Lost Bible." He declared that the Bible had been lost from the home, and with the passing of the Bible from the home the family altar had also been destroyed. He further declared that the Bible had been lost from the pulpit, as well as from society.

Sunday night the evangelist spoke to a packed house. Long before the hour of service chairs and additional seats were being secured from the Sunday School and prayer meeting rooms, and before he began to speak many in the audience were standing. His subject was "The All Sufficient Christ." He declared that the Bible uttered no greater truth than was contained in his text. That the Devil who was referred to as a "roaring lion" had a chain about his neck and that the end of which was in the hands of the Father. As proof of which he gave many Bible quotations, among others the story of Job.

The various Christian Endeavor and Epworth Leagues of the city met Sunday evening at 6:30 in a union meeting at the Cumberland Presbyterian church, which was largely attended and some splendid talks were made upon the subject of good citizenship. Dr. Courtner also spoke to this body, in a short address.

MACK BABER DEAD.

Mack Baber, the well known colored tailor, doing business at 308 East Ninth street, and residing at 1036 Beech street, died suddenly Saturday night. He was taken ill the day before and rapidly sank, expiring as above stated.

COMING DOWN HOME STRETCH

Are The Five Contenders For The Nomination For Mayor.

THREE TO BE ELIMINATED

And The Other Two Will Run It Out In The November Election.

The race for Mayor is now in its last week and no one of the five candidates appears to have any decided advantage. The question of law raised because three of the five candidates failed to file expense accounts 15 days before the primary, has not been pressed by the other two. Some informalities and technical irregularities were also found in one or two of the petitions, but these matters also have been passed over and Circuit Clerk Harris has certified to all of the candidates whose names will be arranged alphabetically as follows: Odie Davis, John Feland, John Stites, R. T. Stowe and R. M. Wooldridge. At least four of the candidates are making active canvasses and all express confidence in the outcome. The two leading candidates must have the final run-off at the regular election.

John Feland has not made any effort to get votes beyond the mere announcement that he was in the race. The other candidates say he is not a serious factor in the contest.

Odie Davis, the first candidate to enter and like Mr. Feland a Republican, is very confident that he will be in the run-off.

R. T. Stowe, the second to enter, is concededly strong and is equally confident that he will be in at the finish.

John Stites is making the most active canvass of any and is very popular with the young men and also is getting many promises of support from the colored voters who last year turned the scale for the two young men who won as commissioners.

Robt. M. Wooldridge is also making a strong pull for the big colored vote and will again demonstrate the hold he has on voters of all classes.

It is not safe to make even a guess on the outcome, since the candidates are liable to be bunched close together. Something more than 2,000 voters are registered and a fair estimate is that 1,600 votes will be cast. The man who gets as many as 500 is pretty apt to be in the run-off.

NEGRO SHOT TO DEATH

Ben Rudolph Killed Vernon Word on Virginia Street, Yesterday.

TROUBLE ABOUT WOMAN

Excited Crowd Witnessed the Homicide and the Slayer Is In Jail.

Vernon Word, a negro man 25 years old, was shot and killed yesterday morning at 11:30 by another negro named Ben Rudolph, about the same age.

The shooting took place back of the Postell building, on Virginia street, and the trouble was about a woman. Rudolph is said to have slapped Word's sister one day last week and Rudolph claims that Word had threatened to kill him. On Saturday he says he saw him, but Word got away. Yesterday he found him and shot him twice, once in the left shoulder and once in the head. Word lived about 45 minutes. Officer Nixon was attracted by the two shots and reached the scene in time to arrest Rudolph, who is now in jail.

Word was a farm hand recently working for Boyd Harris and Lowe Johnson. A large crowd of negroes were present and conflicting stories are told. Word died at the police station, to which he was removed.

PLANNING ANOTHER TRIP

Boosters Met Last Night To Consider a Visit To Other Neighbors.

The Booster Committees met last night to consider another trip for this week. It is contemplated to take two more trips before the campaign closes, one into Trigg and Caldwell and the other into Hopkins and Muhlenberg.

The Kentuckian went to press before the matter was settled, but it is probable that the Western trip will be taken first, taking in Cerulean, Cobb, Lamasco, Cadiz, Canton and other towns. Such a route would be about 90 miles over fairly good roads and could be made in one day with ease.

It has been found inadvisable to take more than 15 or 20 cars, as the crowd becomes unwieldy and some of it hard to control smoothly. When the route is planned, pathfinders will be started out to bill the territory a day or two ahead, as was done before.

LADIES GET LEFT.

Mrs. J. Frank Hanly and Mr. Hanly's secretary, a lady traveling with Mrs. Hanly, missed their train here from delay in getting away from the courthouse in the jam following the speaking Saturday. They were with Mrs. W. R. Wheeler, Mrs. B. D. Hill, J. M. Neblett and B. D. Hill in Mrs. Wheeler's car and got shut off in the crowd. When they got to the depot the special had left for Pembroke. R. E. Cooper came to the rescue and with Miss Katie McDaniel and B. D. Hill started for Pembroke, where the train was being held. Two miles from town, in trying to pass a car, Mr. Cooper's car was ditched, but no one was injured. Three miles further a puncture stopped the car. Mrs. Ernest Higgins and some other ladies came by and took Mrs. Hanly and her companion to Pembroke, where they caught the train.

RUMANIANS FALLING BACK

Before The Austro-German Big Push On The Danube.

MAKE GAINS ELSEWHERE

British Take Trenches Near Thiepval and French Repel Several Counter Attacks.

London, Oct. 16.—Although the Rumanians in northeast Transylvania continue to fall back before the Austro-Germans, from this region all along the battle line to the vicinity of Orsova on the Danube they not alone are giving battle to their adversaries, but at several points by violent counter-attacks here gained an advantage over them.

In Volhynia violent fighting has again broken out. Here both the Russians and the Teutonic allies claim successes for their forces. Petrograd says that north of Korytniza the Russians captured a German trench, inflicting heavy casualties on its occupants.

Along the Stokhod, says Berlin, Russian attacks were repulsed.

German trenches in the neighborhood of the Stuff and Schwaben re-doubts in the Thiepval region of France have been captured by the British and with them more than 300 prisoners. To the east, near Guedecourt the British also have slightly advanced their line.

Berlin admits that the British north of Thiepval gained a firm hold on the German trenches and that the French south of the Somme have won a footing in the sugar refinery at Genemont. The French in Saturday's fighting in the Ablaincourt-Belloy sector made 1,100 German prisoners.

German troops last night launched several counter-attacks against the positions which the French had occupied during the day south of the river Somme, says the official statement issued this afternoon by the French war department. All the German attacks were repulsed by the French infantry, the statement adds, and all the gains were consolidated.

In Macedonia the Serbian troops have made a further advance along the left bank of the Cerna river, while the French have cut the railway lines south of Sere.

The fighting throughout this region consists mainly of artillery duels, only isolated infantry attacks having been reported.

Still further gains for the Italians against the Austrians in the Carso region of the Austro-Italian theater, are recorded by Rome.

MR. TRIBBLE'S INJURY.

The many friends of Mr. Peter Tribble, who was injured by a fall a few days ago, will learn with pleasure that he is now able to be up again. Mr. Tribble was attacked with a fainting spell and fell. His head struck a sharp rock and his face and nose were cut, a gash two inches long being made. He lost considerable blood, and, on account of his age, 81 years, it was feared that his recovery would be slow. He has been at the residence of Mr. C. N. Fox in this city since he sustained the injury, but he will be able to return home by the last of the week.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

A horse belonging to a colored man named Frank Radford ran away Saturday at noon while hitched to a buggy. Going up South Main street, the frightened animal turned into the driveway of Mrs. M. H. Wood and continued to run through the driveway into her lot and finally smashed the buggy in trying to run into the door of the stable, which was only half open. The buggy was a wreck but the horse was not injured. Radford jumped out when the horse started to run.

TUESDAY, OCT. 17

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For President.
WOODROW WILSON,
of New Jersey.

For Vice President.
THOS. R. MARSHALL, of Indiana.

For Congress
D. H. KINCHELOE, of Hopkins County.

For Circuit Judge
CHAS. H. BUSH,
of Christian County.

Mr. Robert S. Lovett, the President of the Union Pacific Railroad, and a life long Republican, has come out for Wilson. His attitude is certainly very significant.

The disagreement between the miners and mine operators in district No. 23 of Kentucky of the United Mine Workers of America, has been settled and all would be working now were it not for the existing car shortage.

The Y. M. C. A. is one of the largest religious undertakings in the world. So practical is its work that it is easier to raise money for it than for any other work. Plans for a world-wide activity next year call for an expenditure of $4,500,000. The war has enlarged the European field and $2,000,000 of the budget will be spent there.

Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly and a former follower of Governor Hughes, has declared for Wilson saying: "Mr. Wilson's foreign policy of patience and peace gives hope for the new world. Mr. Hughes' pale reflection of Colonel Roosevelt's demands reverts to the outworn code, despite fine talk of national honor. This has an evil significance. I solemnly believe that Mr. Hughes' election entails inevitable war with the Mexican people. At home Mr. Wilson has kept every promise. Mr. Hughes will not even make promises to keep."

Men who undertake to perpetrate election frauds this year will have to work against odds, for the department of justice has quietly put into effect the most sweeping and best organized system to detect such schemes ever devised by any administration. The department has let a little information creep out about its system but would not go into details. It was admitted that "from three to ten" special investigators have been sent into Indiana to assist in ferreting out suspected colonization and illegal registration frauds. The department's dragnet extends from Pennsylvania as far west as Colorado. The plan has been systematized to such a degree that the crook who undertakes to work the old familiar colonization scheme is likely to get into trouble with Uncle Sam right off the reel.

Suspicion has been aroused by large numbers of negroes who are leaving the South and going up to the northern industrial centers, ostensibly to secure employment. It is charged that this influx of negroes into the north evidently has a political bearing, for the reason that they manage to get located in places where they vote, they will have a decided effect in turning the political scales on election day.

PERFECTION TO BE SOUGHT

Small Probability of Mankind Reaching It, But at Least the Effort Should Be Made.

We hear a great deal about the finished product as applied to material things, and enjoy tracing the details which mark the successive developments of objects from their crude condition to their finished state. In the attainment of all worldly objects we want the best there is—the finest silk, the most beautiful pictures, the hand-somest furniture, the most exquisite tapestries, etc., are none too good for our esthetic taste, yet unfortunately we do not apply the same standard to our own morals. It is enough that we manage to live within the law, so to speak, to keep just within the lines, and it is rare indeed that we find a man who devotes his time and strength to making a finished spiritual product of himself. Perhaps such a feat is unattainable by mortal man, the human side of his nature being too strong to permit his more spiritual side to gain the upper hand. Such reasoning apparently paves the way for the conclusion that most of us reach that it is impossible for any man to attain a condition of perfection. This is true, of course, but at the same time we must not forget that for all our inability to ascend to the heights we can, at least, progress by easy and natural stages toward their summits. It does not make very much difference if we do not actually reach the top, if we honestly do everything within our power to do so.

ASIA MINOR HARD TO BOUND

Geographical Names There Have Frequently Only the Vaguest Meanings for the Student or the Traveler.

"Asia Minor" is a geographical term of vague extension. It would puzzle anyone to say exactly where it leaves off.

The name dates only from the fifth century, A. D., when Orosius used it, evidently as a novelty. The Roman empire knew no Asia minor; indeed, the Roman province of "Asia" was actually smaller than this Lesser Asia. The alternative name Anatolia (land of the sunrise or East), which has found favor with the Turks, is equally indeterminate.

"The Levant," which means the same thing as "Anatolia"—region of the rising sun—is even vaguer in its geographical scope. It includes Constantinople and everything anywhere near the eastern Mediterranean.

Few geographical names have incurred more unfavorable association. "Levantine" morals, particularly in the matter of honesty, are a byword, as might be expected from such a jumble of people. Our words "levant" and "to levant," on the other hand, testify to the fact that dishonesty is not unknown even in the West. They originate from the disappearance of men who could not pay their gambling or other debts, and were reported to have gone to the East.—American Carpet and Upholstery Journal.

Knew Something.

Schoolchildren know a great deal more than they used to do. In fact, some of them, in their own opinions, at least, are quite capable of tutoring their tutors.

"Those kiddies I teach are as knowing as an encyclopedia," said a teacher a week or two ago.

"In what way?" asked his friend.

"Well," replied the scholastic person, "the other day I set a problem in arithmetic—A rich man dies and leaves a million pounds. One-fifth is to go to the wife, one-fifth to his son, one-eighth to his brother, and the rest to the hospitals. What does each one get?"

"Yes?" queried the friend, not very interested.

"Back came the reply from the smallest boy in the class: 'A lawyer, sir.'"

Thinking and Acting.

We read our papers and find tale of suffering, poverty, hardship. Pity, indignation, a desire to better conditions, a warm sense of our common humanity, is stirred within us. That is thought pleading to be embodied in action. If we permit it to remain unused, we have depleted our force. We are letting the steam escape. The next time, emotion will tend to seek the same channel—and evaporate. This is death to resolution, forceful character. If we are to be strong, alert to meet each emergency of life, we must put into immediate action every high emotional prompting. William James says: "It is not in the moment of their foraging, but in the moment of their producing motor effects, that resolves and aspirations communicate the new 'set' to the brain."

Rather "Tail" Story.

Two travelers just back from their holiday trip were disputing as to which had experienced the greatest cold. Said one:

"In the part of Ireland where I was the ground is frozen so hard that when they want to bury a man they just sharpen his feet and drive him in with a pile hammer."

The other replied:

"Yes, I know that place. Didn't stay there long; found it not bracing enough for me. Went on to a small town farther north. The hotel where I was staying caught fire. No fire escapes or ladders in that primitive settlement. Staircase burned away. Luckily kept my presence of mind. Employed my bath out of the window and slid down the icicle."

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Hopkinsville People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they so often get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health will be gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease often follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the Kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills which are so strongly recommended right here in this locality.

J. W. Francis, Allegree, Ky., says—"For sixteen or eighteen years kidney trouble clung to me. My back was lame in the morning, I felt languid and was subject to headache and dizzy spells. Every cold I caught settled in my kidneys and at such times I had to get up at night to pass the kidney secretions. Doan's kidney pills relieved me in a short time. I am now feeling much better in every way."

NEEDED HIS WINTER CLOTHES

Minus-Zero Blast Chilled the Captain of the Merton Hall, Arriving From the Tropics.

From a torrid heat of 110 degrees into a minus-zero blast came the British steamship Merton Hall from India, a few weeks ago. Captain Sullivan could not find words to tell how human he found Boston weather. The ship was six inches deep in ice, its sides so white one might say they were painted so. The navigating bridge was a toboggan trampled by hotheaded boots that tortured. Captain Sullivan vowed it seemed as if the whole world was freezing up, and awning stanchions, the electric fans and screened doors, the tumbler with the lemonade straws and the canary were hollow mockeries.

When the Merton Hall crept up harbor with anchors and chains so incased in ice it looked doubtful if they could be used. Captain Sullivan began to think of going ashore to see his agents. That gave rise to the ethics of dress, for the Merton Hall's commander was unprepared.

He had a suit of flannels like they wear at Budgo Budge, the headland after leaving Calcutta. Also a gauzy hat with a gay ribbon to frighten the mosquitoes, and a bamboo cane that was the vogue in Aden. His top coat was ample protection for a storm on the Indian ocean, and of material colored like the storms of sand that sweep Suez. His gloves were just about as thin as they handle in Oran. Naturally the captain was praying for a thaw.

In the Red sea, a short time back, the ship was broiling under a sun that heated her decks too hot for the bare feet of the Chinese deck hands, while the temperature of the boiler rooms scored as high as 120 degrees. The enervating weather tapered off as the freighter neared Port Said, but it was not until some time later that arctic conditions 300 miles from Boston were encountered.

PRISONER USES TIME WELL

Convict in Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth Has Perfected Invention of Considerable Value.

Theodore Murdock, an inmate of the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., has invented a motor tire casing which it is claimed will preserve the tire for a distance of 15,000 miles of rough wear, the Kansas City Star says. During the five months he was confined in "isolation" Murdock worked patiently on the main features, perfected the specifications and did everything else possible toward its completion, except to make a model. He then sent it to the patent office at Washington.

On February 22 he received a letter from the patent office informing him that his patent had been granted and that its number was 843,099. Murdock claims that his improvement excludes any foreign particle from coming in contact with the tire, prevents puncture and blowouts, and at the same time gives the same resilience that the tire affords in the absence of its casing, which is fitted together so as to preserve this most necessary feature. The government "roomer and boarder" has been in communication with some of the large motor car manufacturers, and he expects to sell the patent shortly.

ONE CLOCK NOT SET AHEAD

Wise Official Who Couldn't Solve the Problem That Was Puzzling the Teuton Farmer.

The new regulation in Germany by which the clocks have been set forward one hour as an economical measure in the matter of illumination has proved somewhat puzzling, especially to inhabitants in the rural districts. The Frankfurter Zeitung relates an amusing incident which occurred in connection therewith in Bavaria. Rasmus Rasmussen, a farmer, who was always punctual in complying with all laws and regulations, was somewhat bewildered by this new order and sought counsel in regard thereto from the district official.

"Well, Rasmussen, what is troubling you now?" said the official to the farmer, who stood before him nervously fidgeting his cap.

"It's about the clocks," said Rasmussen. "I wanted to ask if it is true that we must set the clocks forward an hour?"

"Of course," replied the official, "and the order embraces every clock in the German empire."

Rasmussen appeared dumfounded and wiped his perspiring brow.

"But that's an awful problem for me," said the farmer. "You see, I have a very old clock which has been in the family since my grandfather's time, and I wanted to ask your honor if I could not leave it just as it always was."

"You cannot," said the official bluntly. "No clock is exempt."

"Well, of course, as you say, but I don't know how I'm going to do it."

"Why, don't be silly. You simply push the hour hand forward one hour. Now go home and don't forget about it."

"Well, all right, but I'll have to see a man about it."

"What's a man got to do with it?"

"Well, you see, the clock is in my garden and is imbedded in a cement column. It has no hands; it is what you call a sun clock or sun dial, and—"

But the official waved him away and refused to listen to him any further.

USED BY ORIENTAL PRINTER

Type-Setting Device That Would Seem to Be a Fearful and a Wonderful Thing.

According to reliable reports from Hawaii, an apparently successful machine for setting Japanese and Chinese type has been developed and is in use at a Honolulu newspaper plant. Its size seemingly gives it a ludicrous appearance, for it is described as looking like a model of the Brooklyn bridge. The keyboard extends along the center beneath the "bridge" for its full length, while the operator is provided with a sliding seat on which he can move from one end to the other when working. Rectangular brass tubes are used as cases for the type, and when the latter are released, by pressure upon the keys, they are caught by a belt carrier and conveyed to one end where they are deposited in a holder. The 5,000 or more characters used by oriental printers have been classified into approximately 100 units. These are collected in the brass tubes, which are likewise classified by means of notches on their sides. While it is intended to market the machine in China and Japan, the opinion has been expressed here that its sale will probably be very limited, owing to its cost and the fact that it will have to compete with the cheapest kind of labor in the cities of both those countries.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Proper Living Conditions Pay.

In a report on "Camp Sanitation and Housing" the California state commission of immigration and housing offers this businesslike illustration to large contractors:

"Suppose a camp of 200 men with a pay roll of $400 per day. If living conditions are had and the sleeping accommodations make a reasonable rest impossible, if the food is fly infested and the toilets are unclean and revolting, the men become disgruntled and dissatisfied and some become sick. Experience has shown that often under such conditions there will be a 25 per cent loss of working efficiency, or a loss of $100, or $3,000 a month. The sum of $10 a day, or $300 a month, will cover easily the cost of good sanitation. This camp, therefore, can save $2,700 a month by installing model living conditions, and do away with the serious handicap of an ever-quitting force. Few employers of unskilled labor realize their loss through 'soldiering' of discontented workers. Petty strikes and a labor force continually quitting, both frequent products of bad camp conditions, often increase the cost of work beyond the profit. Therefore, it is not only to the interest of humanity but to your own interest to have a sanitary and 'livable' camp."

Woman Jurors in California.

"Women are more prolific in their excuses than men," declares Judge Schuhl of Porterville, in whose court a case was called in which a venire of 35 women had been summoned to try W. E. Jones, a barber, accused of bootlegging.

"I thought delays in picking juries would end," mourned Judge Schuhl, "when we summoned the women. Instead they had the finest line of excuses a court ever listened to. And they were excuses the court was unable to combat. When I got through excusing them I had just one woman left, and her I excused on my own initiative."

This probably ends the woman jury experiment in Porterville.—Los Angeles Times.

Fearlessness a Virtue.

From one cause or another we shrink from the responsibility of avowing our deepest convictions. Unique Among Magazines

Probably Joe Mitchell Chapple knows personally more famous people than any other man in the world.

—The London Daily Mail, Paris Edition

OTHER magazines have their place in fiction and fact, but the National with Joe Chapple at the helm is different. Every month for twenty years he has made a trip to Washington to obtain material for the "Affairs at Washington" department. You can hear him 12 times a year through the pages of the National Magazine and enjoy the many timely, interesting tales and special articles on the big men and affairs of the day. The National follows no rut. It is the only magazine of territory. It sets you down suddenly face to face with a big fact. It keeps close to the impulses. People usually like it. It "bores" no one at any time. It is not a palliative, but a blast and a tonic to every person—man, woman and child. No matter where you live, the National will do you good. Write today for a copy and see how you like it. For $1.00, every four months you can become a regular subscriber to the National Magazine. Send No Money until you have read the magazine and know how you like it. NATIONAL MAGAZINE, Boston, Mass. Publishers "Herald Tribune" and "New York Times."

GRAIN FOR PIGS ON ALFALFA

Will Return More Profit if Fed Corn, According to Data of Nebraska Experiment Station.

Pigs on alfalfa pasture will return more profit per pig if fed a grain ration equal to three per cent of their weight, according to data of the North Platte (Neb.) experimental station. The pig is a pork-producing machine, and like other machinery is most profitable when run at full capacity. A pig's stomach is so small that it will not digest enough alfalfa alone to make a profitable growth. Pigs cannot produce the best gain when on pasture alone or when on pasture supplemented by only a small amount of grain.

Tests made at the North Platte station show clearly that two and one-half to three pounds of corn daily per 100 pounds of live weight of the pigs produce not only the greatest gain but the greatest profit. The higher the price of corn, the smaller the profit in favor of the heavier ration. However, on a market quoting corn at 70 cents and hogs at 7½ cents, the 3 per cent ration is still the most profitable.

Old Lady's Sage Advice.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Mrs. Mamie Tox, of 102 W. Main Street, this city, says: "I you had seen me, before I began to take Cardui, you would not think I was the same person. Six doctors failed to do me good and my friends thought I would die. I could hardly get out of bed or walk a step. At last an old lady advised me to take Cardui, and now I can go most anywhere." All ailing women need Cardui, as a gentle, refreshing tonic, especially adapted to their peculiar ailments. It is a reliable vegetable remedy, successfully used for over 50 years. You ought to try it.—Advertisement.

FREAK WAGERS ON RECORD

Offer Proof That Men With Gambling Instincts Will Bet on Anything Under the Sun.

In the "good old days" extraordinary wagers were more common than they are today. In 1670, for instance, London Answers says, Lord Digby staked £50 that he would walk five miles round Newmarket Heath in a certain time, barefooted and stark naked, and had the misfortune of losing by the narrow margin of half a minute, the king and all the court being witnesses of the performance.

In the latter half of the eighteenth century a Liverpool scientist bet a brother scientist that he would read a newspaper by the light of a farthing dip at a distance of 30 feet. The wager was cheerfully accepted. The first scientist merely coated the inside of a shallow wooden box with sloping pieces of looking glass, so as to form a concave lens, placed it behind the farthing dip, and easily read the small print at the distance named. The winning of the wager was witnessed by a Liverpool dockmaster, who ultimately applied the idea to lighthouse requirements and evolved the modern reflected light.

About two years ago, during a yachting trip of members of the Mersey docks and harbor board, A. W. Willmer, a leading Liverpool cotton broker, was presented with a pair of wooden shoes for his birthday, and another member of the board offered to contribute a sum of money to two charities if Mr. Willmer would go to the cotton exchange wearing them. For sweet charity's sake Mr. Willmer appeared on 'change wearing the wooden shoes and the stakes were handed over to him.

Perhaps the limit was reached in a certain town in Canada, where a man propelled a green pea with a toothpick for about eighty yards along the pavement within half an hour of the stipulated time and won his wager.

Plants and Saints.

Certain plants were connected by our ancestors with certain saints, on account of their coming into flower about the time of the occurrence of those saints' days. In this way the snowdrop was called the "purification flower," from its blossoming about Candlemas; the crocus was dedicated to St. Valentine; the daisy to St. Margaret (hence its name marguerite); the carnation, or lady's smock, to the virgin, its white flowers appearing about Lady Day. There was also the Lent lily, or daffodil; the Pasque flower, or anemone; Herb Trinity, Herb Christopher, St. Barnaby's Thistle and the Canterbury bell, in honor of St. Augustine of England.

THEY CAME.

They came—the Hopkinsville Boosters—on Thursday—and hospitable and progressive Trenton did herself proud in the reception given our suburban neighbors.

The party was more than an hundred strong, by automobiles—40 or more in number—and as handsome, wide-awake business bunch as ever came down the pike this way.

Upon arriving in Trenton, where several hundred people had gathered to greet and the honors, the prearranged program was pulled off.—Capt. C. R. Clark's inimitable Turkish band furnishing the music and native orators, the oratory, while handsome men, pretty women and sweet babies applauded. The reception was in every way a credit to Trenton and most pleasant to the visitors.—Trenton Progress.

LIVE BUNCH OF BOOSTERS.

The Hopkinsville boosters were given a hearty reception in Russellville. They were met a few miles from town by the K. of P. band and a number of local citizens in cars. The booster party was composed of thirty cars and about 100 citizens of Hopkinsville and Christian county. Immediately on arrival the ceremonies took place in the city park. Judge J. W. Edwards, in his usual happy way, delivered a short address of welcome. C. R. Clark was master of ceremonies. Short talks were made by James West, Thomas Underwood, W. O. Soyars, L. E. Foster and W. R. Howell. Frank Southall, a comedian and buck wing dancer, also delighted the crowd with a few specialties. To make a long story short, it was a live crowd from a live town, and Russellville was delighted to have them pay us a visit.—Russellville Times.

John Henderson, col., was given six months in the city workhouse Saturday morning on a charge of stealing a saddle and bridle.

Ten Killed.

Ten men were killed and eleven other seriously injured when a train on the Burlington railroad crashed into the freight caboose in which they were riding, near Elwood, Neb. Five other men, standing on the rear platform of the caboose, saw the approaching train soon enough to jump to safety. One other man in the caboose cupola was thrown clear of the wreck and escaped injury.

Immense Crop.

The Department of Agriculture estimates this year's Kentucky tobacco crop at 469,624,000 pounds, against 350,000,000 pounds last year. The Kentucky crop is given a rating of 93, against a ten-year average of 82. The 1916 tobacco crop of the United States is estimated at 1,203,077,000 pounds against 1,060,537,000 pounds last year.

Another Railroad President.

A statement by F. D. Underwood, president of the Erie railroad, declaring himself in favor of the re-election of President Wilson, has been made public. He was quoted as saying he endorsed all Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad, had said of the President's policies.

WIRELESS OUTFIT FOR ARMY

United States Soldiers Are to Be Supplied With the Latest and Best Yet Devised.

A new set of wireless apparatus has been designed for the United States signal corps, with a number of advantages over any now in use. It can be knocked down and shipped in packages, 300 pounds in weight. It can be carried on the backs of mules or by men if necessary. If shipped by railroad it can be packed in a box car or on a flat car. If needed for emergency use it could either be set up and operated on a flat car or in the box of a large wagon. It is therefore well adapted to maneuvers in mountainous countries. It is of exceptionally high power, being capable of transmitting and receiving messages within a radius of at least 250 miles.

Too Early.

Withdrawal of American troops from Mexican soil will not be discussed by the American-Mexican Commission until the Mexican commissioners present further proof that their Government can maintain order.

Mayor Wallace Dead.

Joseph McDowell Wallace, for 45 years teller of the Boyle National Bank and for the past seven years Mayor of Danville, Ky., died Sunday. His wife died only a few weeks ago.

Four Killed.

At Oberlin, O., John Hughes, Jr., a wealthy stock breeder, his wife, one daughter and another woman were killed and a second daughter seriously injured when an interurban car struck their automobile.

No Neutrality There.

I have a good deal of respect for the old woman who, in time of war, started out with a poker when the enemy was approaching. She was asked what she could do with that, and replied: "I can show them which side I am on."—D. L. Moody.

No Financial Disturbance.

In previous presidential years, the Republicans have laid great stress on their claim that the election of a Democrat meant financial disaster as the party was incapable of administering the affairs of government. You have not heard anything of the kind this year. The Democrats have been demonstrating the falsity of such a claim for nearly four years in a most successful administration of affairs and have so changed the banking laws that Republican money kings cannot throw a panic at will. Financial affairs were never in better condition nor business more flourishing. The old familiar scare crow has been relegated to the junk shop for good and all. This in the face of the certainty of the re-election of Wilson is praise indeed of the benefits that his administration has brought. Vote to continue it.

PREVENT DISEASE IN FOALS

Majority of Cases of Navel Trouble Caused by Neglect to Provide Sanitary Quarters.

One colt in five dies of navel disease, also called navel ill, joint ill and joint disease. The majority of cases occur through neglect to provide sanitary quarters for the mare at foaling time.

Navel disease comes from germs that are nearly always present in dark, dirty, poorly ventilated stables. Sometimes these germs are present in adjoining paddocks and fields, but pastures distant from stables and high ways are usually free.

The germs get into the body of a new-born foal through the navel.

Healthy, Vigorous Horse.

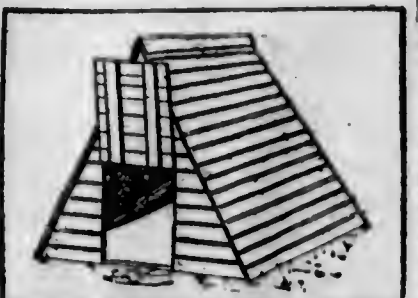

usually a short time after birth. The foals do not always die at once, but may linger for weeks or months with swollen joints and other parts.

Care should be taken to provide a clean stall with plenty of bedding for the mare several days before foaling and to disinfect the floor and walls with a 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid or some other reliable germicide. Cleanliness and sanitation used with intelligence will lessen the losses from this disease. Disinfection of the navel with iodine immediately after birth is recommended by most veterinarians. It might pay to protect the navel with antiseptic bandages until it heals.

MOVABLE HOUSE FOR SWINE

One Large Enough for Sow and Litter Makes Satisfactory Shelter—Good Style Shown.

A cheap movable board house, large enough for one sow and her pigs, makes a satisfactory shelter. A good style is an A-shaped building, 8 feet wide, 8 feet long and with each side of the roof 8 feet in length. It takes a little over 225 feet of lumber to make such a house. There should be doors in both front and back, 2½ feet by 2½ feet, fastened at the top with leather hinges so that they will swing both ways. The north door should be closed in winter. Such a house can be moved from field to field easily. It will shelter a sow and a litter of pigs. When a sow farrows in cold weather a lighted lantern hung inside to the roof will keep the air warm enough for the new-born pigs.

TIME FOR SHEARING SHEEP

Mistaken Notion to Wait Until Late in Season for Heavier and Better Fleeces.

Some people have the idea that if sheep are not shorn until late in the season the fleece will be heavier and better. This, an experienced shepherd of Wisconsin says, is a mistaken notion, and is often the cause of considerable loss. The sheep lose in weight during the first warm days of spring, and, as the fresh grass acts as a laxative, the fleece becomes dirty and unpleasant to handle. It is a much better plan to shear the sheep before turning to grass, as this will insure cleaner wool and will therefore make better gains. Don't neglect to trim the animal's hoofs, if they need it, as cases of foot-rot can thus be prevented.

Preparedness!

Are you ready for Winter? Is your system clear of catarrh? Have Summer colds left you entirely? Have you overcome all effects of Summer foods? If you haven't, restore your body to full vigor with the old standby

PERUNA

It's the tonic that clears away the congestion, purifies the blood and invigorates your whole system.

Peruna, in tablet form, is handy to carry with you. It gives you a chance to check a cold when it starts.

Manalin Tablets are the ideal laxative. They form no habit and have no unpleasant effects. Your druggist can supply you. The Peruna Company, Columbus, Ohio

A Modern Methuselah.

Insurance companies in their life tables now recognize that the span of human existence is extending, says the Indianapolis News. While the biblical limit of four score years was currently accepted a half century ago, the limit today is placed beyond that station on life's highway, the "jumping-off place" being well into the nineties, and in some cases at 100 and beyond.

While these chronological veterans may be envied, their years are few when compared with those of the modern Methuselah, Thomas Parr, whose bones found sepulture November 15, 1635, in Westminster Abbey. Thomas Parr was born at Winnington, Shropshire, England, in 1483, and was a farm laborer. Till the age of eighty he continued a bachelor and then married his first wife, with whom he lived for thirty-two years. Eight years after her death, when he himself was 120 years old, he married for the second time.

When in 1635 he had attained the age of 152 years, the Earl of Arundel took him to London and presented him at the court of King Charles I. It would have been better had the earl left the old man undisturbed in his native parish. His death was attributed to the fatigues of the journey and the crowds of visitors who thronged to see him. Dr. Harvey, the discoverer of the circulation of the blood, examined Parr's body after death and reported that he found it remarkably stout and healthy, without any trace of decay or organic disease. But for that trip to London and the high life he encountered there, old Parr might have attained even a much greater age.

Bond Issue Defeated.

An election was held in Pembroke Saturday on the proposition to vote a $6,000 bond issue for improving the streets. It provided for an increase of 20 cents per $100 on taxable property, and required a two-thirds majority. The proposition received 32 votes and 60 were cast against it.

The Income Tax.

Senator Gore, the blind man eloquent, said at Hopkinsville, that the Democrats had passed a dozen laws, any one of which would have immortalized the Republican party, and in praising the income tax law, passed by a Democratic congress, said: "If you wish to take the load from the back of Dives and put it on the back of Lazarus" vote for Hughes. The latter's opposition to the income tax law and his objection to having the rich pay their proportion of the burden of taxation, seems to warrant the belief that in the event of his election the law which is taking millions from the rich for the support of the government will be repealed. The success of the Democratic party insures that wealth will continue to be taxed as it should.

Two Marriages Saturday.

Judge Knight officiated at two marriages at the court house Saturday. The first wedding was that of Roy Bedwell and Miss Maggie Graham. The second was Alonzo Gilliam and Miss Julia Goode, a young couple of the Pilot Rock neighborhood.

Who Fed the Elephants, Camels, Horses and other animals in Ringling Bros., big Circus?

Immediately after their advance march hit Hopkinsville, he had instructions from his boss to buy his feed from

WHY? Because he had learned from past experience that

A Young Man's Fall.

Harry G. Dickerson, a former assistant postmaster at Glasgow, Ky., entered a plea of guilty before Judge Walter Evans in the United States District Court to-day. He was indicted during the past week by the Federal grand jury on a charge of having stolen on July 18, 1916, a registered package containing $1,000 consigned to a concern at Gamaliel, Monroe county, and also with having embezzled postal funds on three different occasions during the past year.

Dickerson, who was represented by Attorney Logan C. Porter, of Glasgow, is unmarried and 29 years old, and his arrest some weeks ago caused a sensation in Glasgow. He was a leader in religious circles there, being a Sunday school teacher and a promoter of the Boy Scout movement.—Times.

SIX MILLIONS FOR GOOD ROADS

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 16.—Bond issues for the improvement of public roads have been voted in twenty-eight counties aggregating $5,775,000. In nearly all of the counties the bonds have been sold at a premium and the money on deposit is drawing interest at a rate of from 2 to 4 per cent.

Nat B. Newell, State Inspector and Examiner, has compiled statistics to use in making investigations and inspections showing the amount of bond issues voted by each county, the rate of interest they are drawing and whether the work is being done by force or contract system.

Fayette county has a $300,000 bond issue; Ballard, $300,000; Knox, $200,000; Bell, $285,000; Whitley, $250,000; Harlan, $300,000; Rockcastle, $100,000; Scott, $100,000; Laurel, $100,000; Nicholas, $125,000; Lewis, $150,000; Breathitt, $150,000; Greenup, $200,000; Clinton, $50,000; Russell, $40,000; Carroll, $50,000; Boyd, $600,000; Pulaski, $300,000; Daviess, $600,000; Kenton, $150,000; Campbell, $100,000; Oldham, $100,000; Trigg, $150,000; Bracken, $200,000; Union, $450,000; Christian, $400,000; Powell, $40,000; Carter, $150,000.

Divorcees Not Barred.

The proposed change in the canons of the Protestant Episcopal church forbidding the remarriage of persons divorced for causes arising after marriage, regardless of the cause, was rejected by the house of deputies of the general convention at St. Louis. The clerical delegates approved the proposed canon by a vote of 40½ to 21½. The lay delegates rejected it, 29 to 32½. The rejection leaves the present church law unchanged. Under this law, an Episcopal clergyman can perform the marriage ceremony for the innocent party to a divorcee on statutory grounds.

TODD MAN HURT.

Frank Higgins, of Allegree, was thrown from a buggy on Seventh street Saturday afternoon and his skull was fractured and one arm broken. Allen Higgins, who was with him escaped unhurt. Higgins claims that an automobile frightened his mule. He was taken to the Hospital and was able to go home Sunday.

School of Motherhood.

There have been innumerable projects for schools or school courses in the art and science of motherhood. Some of them may have been successful, for all any knows, although in the rush of news on the advance styles of corsets and earrings and other necessities there seems no place for reviewing the motherhood situation. But the will of the late Mrs. Lizzie Morrill Palmer, of Detroit, is attracting some attention, momentarily. Mrs. Palmer left something like one million dollars to found a school of motherhood.—Shelbyville News.

Costly Kiss.

A kiss in the moonlight Wednesday cost Major McKinley, negro, $10 in Police Court this morning, because dusky Maggie Strider, 16, construed his greeting as disorderly conduct. McKinley said her thoughts were purely imaginative; the moonbeams might have kissed her, but that he did not.

"Now, Judge, I ask you, what would I have wanted to kiss that girl for?" he asked.

The answer was short and to the point:

"For $10," Judge Riley said.

Nuts and Persimmons.

There is an unusual crop of walnuts to be seen all over this section. Hickorynuts are also said to be plentiful. Persimmons are also abundant and are now getting ripe.

KENTUCKY BOY IN UTAH.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Major left Ogden yesterday for Boston, where Mr. Major will enter a four-year law course at Harvard. Mr. Major recently resigned as captain of the Afton division of Wyoming National Guards at Cheyenne. He was principal of the Afton High School and superintendent of schools of that city before accepting the captaincy of the guard.—Ogden, Utah, Standard.

The young man referred to is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hop Major, formerly of Canton, Ky.

Wasting Money.

The bringing again of Hughes to Kentucky and the injection of the fiery Roosevelt into the campaign here shows that the Republican leaders still have hopes of carrying the old Commonwealth by appeals to passion and cupidity, by abuse of Wilson and the Democratic party and with the tainted money that Wall street is supplying so lavishly. They are reckoning in vain, however. The Democrats are on to their game and every man intends to do his duty, which spells Republican defeat, labor lost and money wasted.

Lucian Fowler, Jr.

Mr. Stork arrived in Clarksville Saturday morning at 7:15, accompanied by Lucian Fowler, Jr., Little Mr. Fowler will spend several weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Crouch, before going to his home in Hopkinsville.—Leaf-Chronicle.

Wilson in Indiana.

Wilson will defeat Hughes in Indiana by 60,000, according to an official estimate based on registration returns and polls just completed.

Vanderbilt defeated the University of Kentucky team 45 to 0 before the largest crowd that has seen a football game in many years.

Mrs. Powell Almost Dead.

Dry Ridge, Ky.—"I could hardly walk across the room," says Mr. Lodla Powell, of Dry Ridge, "before I tried Cardui. I was so poorly, I was almost dead. Now I can walk four miles and do my work with much more ease. I praise Cardui for my wonderful cure." Cardui is successful in helping sick women, because it is composed of ingredients that act specifically on the womanly constitution, relieving headache, backache, irregularity, misery and distress. Only a good medicine could show such continual increase in popularity as Cardui has, for the past 50 years. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic.—Advertisement.

Why Children Leave School.

Half the children who left school, in a large group studied by investigators of the federal department of labor, did so because of their dislike for school work. Less than a third left because their parents could not afford to keep them longer in school. These facts are brought out in a recent government bulletin. They help explain why the Gary system of education is gaining so many adherents all over the country.—Kansas City Star.

Forget Your Aches.

Stiff knees, aching limbs, lame back make life a burden. If you suffer from rheumatism, gout, lumbago, neuralgia, get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, the universal remedy for pain. ANIMALS THAT NEVER EAT

Many Mechanical Appliances Have Been Given the Names of Birds and Beasts.

Have you ever realized what a number of scientific appliances have been named after animals? And can you furnish an explanation?

A mechanic puts his work upon a horse, or huck, and he punches or hends it by a convenient hear. Hoisting is done by a crab, a convenient cat is part of the outfit of a shop crane, and a kit of tools is ever at hand.

A crow helps to straighten work, a jack to lift it; a mule pulley helps to drive machinery which a donkey engine turns. A fish connects parts end to end, shells are used all over, while a worm does quiet but powerful work.

Again, a cock shuts off the water; a ram lifts it. A printing press has a fly, the first locomotives had a grasshopper valve motion, and butterfly valves are common.

Herring-bone gears are used by the best builders; turtles fit printing press cylinders, and fly wheels are running all over the world. In drilling, even, an old man is called into service, and doctors prevent faulty lathe work.

Giant and Dwarf Honey Bees.

In some of the East Indian islands and on the mainland of Hindustan are to be found the smallest species of honey bees in the world. These dwarf honey collectors are known to entomologists as Apis florea. Their honeycombs are no longer than a child's hand and the cells are about the size of a small pin head. This honey is excellent, as is the wax. The little creatures build the comb on the branch of a low tree, and as they have not to provide for winter they work all the year through, raising broods like themselves.

In the same land there is a species of giant bees, Apis dorsata, as large as a field cricket. These monsters of the bee world build honeycombs that are from six to seven feet in length, four or more in width, and weigh from 300 to 400 pounds each.

Three Types of Sea Mines.

Submarine mines are of three types. First, ground mines, which are usually of great size and laid directly on the bottom of shallow seas; second, anchored mines, which are attached by a cable to a weight on the bottom and are designed to float at a predetermined depth, so that they will touch and be detonated by passing ships; and, third, floating mines, which are dropped on the surface of the water.—Exchange.

REFUTES LIBEL ON THE AUNT

New York Newspaper Comes to the Rescue of Valued Relative, Victim of Unjust Attack.

W. L. George, the English essayist and novelist, has been writing in Harper's on the decay of the home, remarks the New York World. He arrives at an abuse of relatives which nobody should mind if it were confined to generalities. It is when he comes to specifications that he provokes wrath and proves himself to be either no nephew at all or a most unlucky one.

The well-informed and the experienced know that wicked and hateful aunts exist only in books about ogres. In real life aunts, not to mention all uncles, are second only to grandpas and grandmas in the loving work of spoiling the children of their brothers and sisters. Yet Mr. George tells us that "however high you may rise, your aunt will never see it."

Is there a community in which one woman is ever waiting watchfully to be neighbor, friend and helper to those who need neighboring and befriending in the worst way? Whose heart and whose generous hand alike are hospitably open? Who can sing anybody's baby to sleep, or charm anybody's older tots with fairy tales? Who is the confidante of every village lover and the comfort of every village prodigal?

Well, then, she is Aunt Susan, or Aunt Mary, or Aunt Whatever; and if she has own nieces or nephews, and if they have done anything at all, it is something better than any other nieces or nephews ever have done, and her praise of them pervades and prevails like sunshine.

If Mr. George is going to keep on abusing members of the family, prudence will bid him to let the aunts alone.

TIME FOR HIM TO HAVE REST

Enumeration of Hardships Failed to Win for Soldier the Support of One of His Hearers.

"Gentlemen," said the ex-army officer, who was aspiring to parliamentary honors, "I have fought against the Turks. Often have I had as my bed the cold, damp battlefield, and with bleeding feet I have marched over the frozen ground, until utterly exhausted."

The audience seemed to be impressed, and a burly son of the soil was seen to approach the platform. Then he spoke with great deliberation.

"Did you say you'd fought against the Turks?"

"Yes," replied the candidate.

"And that you lay for nights on the cold, damp battlefield?"

"That I did, sir."

"And your feet bled as you marched over the frozen ground?"

"Yes, I assure you they did."

"Then I'll be hanged if you ain't done enough for your country. Go home and rest. I'll vote for the other fellow."—London Tit-Bits.

The Awakening.

The war's world-earthquake has shaken man out of his slumbering. The soul is awake, and it will rouse up in even greater alertness when the European populace, now dragged into sensibility by martial law and the battle-fever, shall wake up out of their sleep. Man is willing, as he has not been before in 1,800 years, to break camp, pull up stakes, leave the spot where he has been stagnating so long and so ignobly, and renew the journey of pilgrimage. It is a moment of incomparable preciousness—and of incomparable responsibility. For if man, now that he is shaking off his sloth of soul and is gathering together his spiritual effects for a resumption of his pilgrimage task, can be guided into the upward heaven-seeking path, it will be a gain worth even the blood-cost whereby it was purchased. But if, for lack of competent guides, mankind's new travel mood wears itself out in byways, its end will be in swamps and wilderness. A reaction will set in that will therefore make stagnation more stagnant. And the earth will have been disquieted in vain.—Bonck White in Atlantic.

Need Unusual Amount of Oil.

For some time past, according to reports, international trains arriving in Holland from Germany were found to run very noisily and to be in need of more lubricant. Investigation by the Dutch railroad officials revealed the fact, it is said, that the lubricant containers on the trains from across the border had been emptied of oil and grease before leaving Germany, where lubricants are now scarce, or else were provided with just about enough to carry them into Holland. After this discovery the Dutch guards saw to it that they did not supply more than enough oil and grease to carry the trains back over the boundary.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Changing Street Names.

And why should street names ever be changed? The whole public comes to have a certain vested interest in the old names. When one is displaced to serve some private purpose, to immortalize some ward politician, or to promote some real estate speculation, there is no telling how many other interests are affected, or what legitimate sensibilities are hurt. Half of the individuality and character of London would be gone were such street names as Threadneedle street and St. Mary Axe, for instance, to give way to modern names.—Boston Transcript.

FEEDING CALVES DRY GRAIN

Corn, Barley, Oats or a Mixture May Be Used to Supply Missing Fat—
Feed in Trough.

In feeding skim milk calves the grain needed to supply the missing fat, may be corn, barley, oats or a mixture. Occasionally a feeder has skim milk or alfalfa or clover hay on hand, and to these he adds linseed meal, cottonseed meal or gluten feed. These are all in protein, and when any one of them is combined with skim milk and alfalfa—both high in protein—an unbalanced ration results and scours or other digestive troubles follow.

The digestive tract of a calf is small and frequent feeding of small amount during the first month is best. During the first month it is better to grind the grains fed. At the end of this period either oats or corn may be fed unground. Hard grains like kafir and milo give best results when ground. All grain should be fed dry in a trough. Mixing feeds with milk is not recommended, as calves chew their feed better when fed dry.

Don't Neglect Your Cold.

Neglected colds get worse, instead of better. A stuffed head, a tight chest must be relieved at once. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is Nature's remedy. Honey and glycerine heal the irritated membrane, antiseptic tar loosens the phlegm, you breathe easier and your cold is broken up. Pleasant to take, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is an ideal remedy for children as well as grown-ups. At your Druggist, 25¢.—Advertisement.

CUSTOM OF CARRYING CANES

Biologists Trace It to Their Satisfaction to the Faraway Days of the Caveman.

A cane imparts a sense of confidence and ease to its carrier. Before the age of hominids, bows and arrows, spears and steel a cane (or cudgel) in the hand was often a matter of life and death when a citizen of the canyons was attacked by an enemy. He who could ply his knotted stick with the best skill was probably the political boss of those days. A certain remnant of this primitive instinct exists today, remarks the Minneapolis Journal.

Some biologists trace the origin of the walking stick back even farther than cavemen. In the primordial stage certain animals were accustomed to the feel of wood and depended on trees for sudden ascension from danger. The ape found it easier to walk on his hind legs with a bowed stick in his paws. Whether there is any connection between these facts and the present use of the cane is, of course, highly theoretical.

Man today carries his walking stick for three reasons—it is fashionable, it makes walking easier and in the event of attack it may be used as an article of self-defense.

There are many memories and sentiments wrapped up in canes. Collections of them have the same artistic and historical value as any other antiques or curios. If you walk down the avenue with a cane that was once used by the prince of Wales, you probably step a little more proudly. The stick carried by your distinguished grandfather is a relic with which your house hold will never part.

Don't use harsh physics. The reaction weakens the bowels, leads to chronic constipation. Get Doan's Relaxants. They operate easily. 25¢ at all stores.—Advertisement.

Outsinging the Archangels.

In nearly every town in the land is told the story of its particular bumptious citizen, whose arrival in heaven caused the Supreme One to advise the one on his right to arise and let the awestruck sit down. But this epitaph may be read on a tomb in a cemetery at Madrid: "Here lies Juan Pinto, the Spanish Orpheus. When he arrived in heaven he joined his voice with those of the archangels. Scarcely had he heard it than the Almighty exclaimed, 'Be silent, all, and allow the illustrious tenor, Juan Pinto to sing alone.'"

EXPORT OF AUTOS ECLIPSES RECORD

Year's Figures Exceed Those of 1915 By More Than $67,000,000.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Exports of American Automobiles during the year ending June 30 reached the great total of $144,826,719, exceeding by $67,700,000 the previous record made in 1915. Figures made public today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce show that while export sales were made in twenty-six countries, they were chiefly concentrated, probably because of the war, in England, France and Russia.

Large increases in South America were noted. India, Australia, Tasmania, New Zealand and British South Africa also developed important markets for American motor cars and parts.

Doctors To Blame.

Edward Bloomfield, counsel for the Kentucky Board of Pharmacy, in his tenth annual report, says doctors are to blame for most of the dope fiends. Certain doctors, he said, would write prescriptions for small fees without making examinations to see if the drug was needed.

HEALTH STATISTICS.

Kentucky being a Southern State with a large per cent of its population comprised of negroes, has attracted considerable attention from the rest of the States that keep Vital Statistics records and which have only a small per cent of negro population. A resume of the 1915 Vital Statistics records of Kentucky shows that there were 23,441 deaths of white people recorded during the year and 5,519 deaths of negroes. The total estimated white population of Kentucky was 2,115,315 and total colored population was 249,970. This gave a death rate of 11.1 for whites and 22.9 for blacks per 1,000 population. It is very significant that the diseases of the respiratory organs are responsible for a much larger death rate among the colored population than the white. The death rate per 100,000 white population was 144.8 and 434.2 in the colored for tuberculosis of the lungs. The rate per 100,000 for other forms of tuberculosis for white population was 20.1 and for colored population, 41.6. Pneumonia gave a death rate of 89.1 per 100,000 for the white and 204.5 for colored population. Influenza or lagrippe gave 19.7 for the white and 3.4 for the colored population. Whooping cough gave 8.9 for white and 15.6 for the colored population. Diarrheal and dysenteric diseases, including typhoid fever, afford a striking example of the high rates in the colored population, the rates per 100,000 being 27.5 for whites and 49.2 for colored population for typhoid. The diarrheal and dysenteric diseases of children under two years of age gave a death rate of 34.9 for white and 41.2 for colored population. Dysentery of people age two years and over gave a rate of 14.8 for the white and 22.4 for the colored population.

These facts are of vital importance to the people of the State because of the intimate relation of the colored and white population on account of the servant problem. The record shows that for this year which is typical of the prevailing conditions there were about three times as many negroes afflicted with tuberculosis as whites, assuming the mortality rate to be of the same severity. A tubercular cook in the kitchen is more dangerous to a family than an unconfined lunatic. In the latter case, upon the first act of violence, he would be confined by society. In the former case, there is nothing to prevent such an individual from infecting each and every member of the household, and continuing the process as often as she is hired by other families. Tuberculosis sputum, containing myriads of germs of consumption, can be readily spread by contact of the fingers with the mouth and nose or the handkerchief, and from the fingers it can be spread upon such foods as are not thoroughly sterilized by cooking, giving rise to an intestinal form of tuberculosis. Careless spitting on the part of a domestic will result in many of these germs finding their way through dust to the lungs of members of the family, who necessarily visit the kitchen. Maids affected with tuberculosis have access to the sleeping chambers of the family, and the same carelessness due to ignorance or indifference leads to disastrous results.

It is well known that many epidemics of typhoid fever have been traced to cooks who previously had suffered an attack of typhoid and who continued to discharge from the bowels millions of these seeds of the disease for weeks or often months. Negro cooks in the matter of personal habits have rather unenviable reputations and are especially dangerous when they are carriers of the disease. They are careless of the finger nails or in the matter of washing soiled hands and have abundant opportunities for permitting this foul material laden with germs to come in contact with the food of the family.

This is especially true in handling milk, which is almost always drunk without being sterilized. It is well known that the South has higher death rates from typhoid and tuberculosis. Some public health officials, and people who take a pride in the land of their birth, endeavor to explain this and excuse it by saying it is because of the high percentage of the negroes in the population of the South and their high death rate. This does not lessen the importance of the public health problem, but rather magnifies it for the reasons above give. A white man, woman, boy or girl dead from typhoid fever or consumption, which came from a negro infective agent, is just as dead as if the disease had been contracted from a white person, and any work of health reform which leaves out of consideration education and control of the colored population is worse than useless and is folly.

The death rate per 100,000 of white from violence was 64.8 and of colored 132.8. Cancer showed a slight increase in the death rate of colored population. Diphtheria showed a rate of 24.7 in the white and 12.8 in the colored population. Measles showed a slight decrease in colored population. Pellagra, meningitis and scarlet fever had approximately the same rate.

KENTUCKY'S GOOD ROADS

Commissioner Wiley Addresses Automobile Club Members.

Rodman Wiley, State Road Commissioner, addressed a meeting of members at the offices of the Louisville Automobile Club on road work in Kentucky. He said that during the past year there had been surveyed 800 miles of road; that 400 miles had been completed at a cost of $1,400,000, and that 786 miles of road have been contracted for as a result of the new State aid law. He said that 108 counties have availed themselves of the State aid act and there is a disposition on the part of the county officials all over the State to take full advantage of the law and improve roads to the point where Kentucky will be well provided with modern highways.

Discussing the Federal aid law, he said it was a known fact, however, that road work was always begun too late in the year, and he urged county officials to get their projects in such shape that they can be approved by the Federal government by December, the surveys made during the winter and the Federal contracts let about March 1. He called attention to the fact that total road contracts next year, under Federal aid could amount to $600,000.

COUNTRY EDITORS BEING SQUEEZED

We learned this week that it was possible to buy a patent sheet (the Outlook printed on one side) for $1.50 per thousand sheets cheaper than we can buy the white paper. If this is not catching the trust with the goods on them, then we do not know what we are talking about. Just think of it, this concern is willing and anxious to furnish the white paper and print four pages for $1.50 per thousand sheets cheaper than we can buy the white paper. Now, isn't this plain that the country publishers are being squeezed out of their life blood. The object of this robbery is slowly coming to light every day, and we want to say right here the day of reckoning is not far in the future.—Falmouth Outlook.

TWO LYNCHED AT PADUCAH

Assailant of White Woman And Another Negro Hanged.

Brenck Finley, a negro charged with assaulting Mrs. George Rose, wife of an I. C. repairer, and Asa Thornhill, another negro who had expressed approval of Finley's deed, were hanged by a mob at Paducah yesterday and their bodies burned. Finley was taken from jail but Thornhill was seized on the street. Some of the mob members traveled in automobiles. Judge Reed made an appeal to the mob, but without avail.

IN FOR TWO YEARS.

George Brown, a negro workhouse convict, escaped from the street gang last June with 72 days to serve. Last week Brown was captured in Fulton and is back in the chain gang, this time with 720 days to put in, as under the law his time is multiplied ten times.

Private E. O. Graham, Co. C. 31st, Mich. Infantry was killed by Private A. C. Sauer, of the same company, who claimed the shot was accidental.
